Course Introduction

Illicit financial flows (IFFs) pose one of the greatest threats to economic growth, fiscal transparency, and sustainable development. Governments and revenue authorities worldwide face challenges in combating tax evasion, money laundering, transfer mispricing, and illegal capital flight. Illicit Financial Flows and Revenue Administration Training Course provides participants with essential knowledge, tools, and global best practices for tackling IFFs, strengthening domestic resource mobilization, and enhancing compliance systems.

This intensive program emphasizes revenue administration reforms, anti-corruption frameworks, international tax cooperation, digital monitoring systems, and financial intelligence strategies. Through interactive learning, practical exercises, and real-world case studies, participants will gain the capacity to detect illicit activities, mitigate financial leakages, and strengthen public sector accountability. By integrating trending approaches in blockchain analysis, big data analytics, regulatory compliance, and risk-based auditing, the course equips stakeholders with actionable skills to build resilient institutions and sustainable fiscal systems.
