Training Course on Child Centered Disaster Risk Reduction

Professional Development Training Course Outline

Category	Development	Duration	5 Days
Base Fee	$1,500 USD	Delivery Mode	Online / On-site Hybrid

Course Introduction

In the face of increasing global disasters, children remain among the most vulnerable populations. Recognizing this, the Child-Centered Disaster Risk Reduction (CCDRR) training course has been meticulously designed to equip professionals with the tools and strategies to protect and empower children during emergencies. This course emphasizes the integration of children's rights and participation in disaster risk reduction (DRR) efforts to create resilient communities.

This training offers participants a comprehensive understanding of how disasters impact children and their communities, highlighting the importance of child-centered approaches in DRR. Through a blend of theoretical knowledge and practical case studies, the course underscores why children must be at the heart of disaster preparedness, response, and recovery strategies. Participants will gain actionable insights into fostering a safer, more inclusive environment for children in disaster-prone areas.

Designed for educators, social workers, government officials, humanitarian professionals, and community leaders, this course bridges gaps in knowledge and practice, focusing on inclusive approaches that consider children's unique needs and contributions. By attending, you will enhance your ability to influence policies, implement effective programs, and advocate for child safety and resilience.
