Category	Criminology	Duration	5 Days
Base Fee	$1,500 USD	Delivery Mode	Online / On-site Hybrid

Course Introduction

Youth crime is a pressing concern globally, influencing community safety, educational outcomes, and long-term societal development. As communities and governments grapple with rising juvenile delinquency, youth crime prevention programs have become vital tools for promoting positive behavioral change, community resilience, and crime reduction. Training Course on Youth Crime Prevention Programs is designed to equip practitioners, educators, policymakers, and community leaders with the skills, strategies, and evidence-based practices needed to implement effective youth crime prevention programs.

By combining criminology theory with hands-on applications, this course integrates proactive intervention, restorative justice, and community-based solutions. Participants will explore risk factor assessments, trauma-informed care, and youth engagement techniques, while evaluating real-world case studies. Through this training, learners will develop the capacity to design impactful programs that reduce recidivism, empower at-risk youth, and foster safer, stronger communities.
